SYNOPSIS

Set along the beautiful Mattole River in rural Humboldt County, California, four siblings gather at their family cabin 10 years after a tragedy tore them apart. Phil, the oldest of the four, now an attorney, invites them to meet at the site to prepare the property for sale and execute paperwork requiring all four signatures. At least that's the practical approach she pitched to hopefully bring them all together again.

This reunion is the first time they have all been together since the event that splintered their family apart. Will this gathering provide an opportunity to reveal the truth of what happened 10 years ago and help them heal as a family?

CAST BIOS

CAST BIOS

She spends her summer swimming in the Mattole River, climbing trees and reading books to her birds in the evenings. COVID took quite the toll on having friends over to play and she is now transitioning back from her feathered friends to her old dear friends (who thankfully don't poop in the house). Ranae says she likes acting because she doesn't have to do chores and the crew brings her gloves and a jacket when she is cold...and snacks.
